NEW YORK

Javier Gomez is an artist and photographer from Panama, based in New York.

Gomez studied photography at New York University and the Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art. He has become known for photographing urban architecture and organic objects in a surreal and abstract way. Influenced by the principles of sacred geometry, Gomez accentuates color, volume and texture to blur the lines of nature and the abstract with familiar scenes. He has since created his own aesthetic by observing organic objects as well as the architectural details of the world's greatest buildings, translating these observations into bold, color-centric abstract works. Most recently some of those works have been transposed into a new bed linen collection, JG home launched the fall of 2015.

BVLGARI ON JAVIER GOMEZ

How do we feel when we are in front of a work of art? We enter Monza's cathedral to find out. The 6th century nears the end, and we're by Queen Teodolinda's side wife of the Longobard king Atari, and later Agilulfo. We owe her everything that surrounds us: one of the most important ecclesiastical structures in Italy: The centuries pass, and we witness various transformations. In the 14th century; precious details get added on - among others, the altar and the pulpit, symbols of the imperial coronations related to Visconti's family. The basilica becomes what we admire today in the 15th century; under the sign of the Zavattari painters. Thanks to a complicated restoration implemented by Fondazione Gaiani, the paintings narrating Teodolinda's story through forty -five everyday scenes come back to life. The single expressions of the eight hundred characters of the tale are now before our eyes. A visual Kaleidoscope translated by a detail, the sixteen radu rose - window, which reveals the deep connection between all these works: brightness and color. We're overthrown by surprise, emotions, enchantment. Art gives us back portion of reality to unleash emotional earthquakes. All because of an element shared between the place, the works and the photographer: light.
